Situation Overview

- California State of Emergency Proclamation

On March 4, 2020, Governor Gavin Newsom declared a State of Emergency for California, as a result of the global COVID-19 outbreak that began in December 2019, to make additional resources available, formalize emergency actions already underway across multiple state agencies and departments, and help the State prepare for broader spread of COVID-19.

- Global Health Advisory

On August 6, 2020, in close coordination with the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), the Department of State lifted the Global Level 4 Health Advisory. For more information visit: <https://www.state.gov>.

- Executive Order N-33-20

On August 28, 2020, California introduced a blueprint for reducing COVID-19 in the state with revised criteria for loosening and tightening restrictions on activities by counties. Visit Blueprint for a Safer Economy for more information and to check the status of a county. This blueprint included a health equity metric to be used along with other metrics to determine a county's tier. The purpose of Equity Metric is to ensure California reopens its economy safely by reducing disease transmission in all communities.

2021 January Public Safety Power Shutoff

January 16, 2021 - 1630 hours

A strong wind event will bring high risk fire conditions to portions of Inland and Southern Regions. Southern California Edison and Pacific Gas and Electric have activated PSPS protocols due to elevated fire conditions.

Situation Cell Overview

A strong wind event will bring high risk fire conditions to portions of Inland and Southern Regions Monday through Wednesday. Southern California Edison (SCE) and Pacific Gas and Electric (PG&E) have activated public safety power shutoff protocols to mitigate the risks of large fires.

Key Points

- SCE is currently at Initiating Re-energization Patrols PSPS Stage.
- PG&E is currently at Activating PSPS Protocols/Potential to De-energize PSPS Stage.
- Critical fire weather conditions could lead to rapid spread of any new fires.

Potential Impacts

- Very strong winds in combination with dry surface fuels bring critical fire weather conditions.

Weather

Northern California Geographical Coordination Center (Northern GACC):

A strong to very strong north to northeast wind event will surface Sunday night through Tuesday night. Widespread peak gusts of 30-50 mph are likely with local gusts of 60-90 mph. Relative humidity values will be sharply drier Monday through Wednesday with some single digits and widespread values in the teens. Despite recent moisture, the strong winds will create localized elevated fire danger within the grass-shrub dominate fuel types, especially within portions of the Greater Bay Area and Sacramento Valley Foothills Monday and Tuesday.

Southern California Geographical Coordination Center (Southern GACC):

The large fire threat will decrease Sunday across Southern California as winds decrease and become more localized, but there will still be an elevated threat for large fires. Rapid rates of spread and long-range spotting will be likely on new ignitions in windy areas that have a large fine dead fuel component. Large fire potential will remain low across Central California through this weekend. Strong winds will cause an increase in the fire threat Monday evening through Wednesday morning, but no "High Risk" days are anticipated since humidity will be high and there will be scattered showers across Southern California where fuels are the driest. However, if an ignition were to occur in a very windy area with a large dead component, a large fire will be possible. Expect light to moderate initial attack activity across the region through the middle of next week.

Santa Ana Wildfire Threat Index

Offshore winds of 15 to 25 mph with gusts to 40 mph will increase to 20 to 30 mph with gusts to 50 mph late this morning and afternoon before decreasing after sunset. Humidity will be in the single digits and teens. Temperatures will be near record highs with widespread 80s across the lower elevations. Fuels are dry enough to support large fire activity.

Zones	Sat/Jan 16	Sun/Jan 17	Mon/Jan 18	Tue/Jan 19	Wed/Jan 20	Thu/Jan 21
Zone 1: LA-Ventura
Zone 2: Orange-Inland Empire
Zone 3: San Diego
Zone 4: Santa Barbara

NO RATING	Winds are either not expected, will not contribute to significant fire activity.
MARGINAL	Upon ignition, fires may grow rapidly.
MODERATE	Upon ignition, fires will grow rapidly and will be difficult to control.
HIGH	Upon ignition, fires will grow very rapidly, will burn intensely, and will be very difficult to control.
EXTREME	Upon ignition, fires will have extreme growth, will burn very intensely, and will be uncontrollable.

National Weather Service (NWS)

- Dry conditions are expected statewide.
- Strong northeast winds are expected Sunday night through Tuesday on exposed ridges of Lake and Mendocino Counties, with winds increasing across much of Northern California by Monday morning.
 - Damaging winds, including to fire damaged/weakened trees, are increasingly possible early in the week as very strong winds are expected to develop across the Bay Area and northern Sierra by early Monday, and across the Sierra and eastern portions of the Central Valley Monday into Tuesday.
- A moderate Santa Ana wind event is expected for Southern California Monday, Tuesday, and possibly lingering into Wednesday, causing critical fire weather conditions for a significant portion of Southern California.
 - The strongest winds are anticipated to be late Monday night and Tuesday across Los Angeles and Ventura Counties with damaging wind gusts as high as 80 mph or possibly even higher in some areas.
